Funeral services were held from the home Thursday afternoon with Rev. G. Gerhold of St. Peter's church and Rev. R. Malek of the Frankfort Methodist church officiating. Burial was made in Pleasant Hill Cemetery, Frankfort.

TO ISSUE SUGAR RATION STAMPS NEXT

Sugar will soon be as scarce as the proverbial hens teeth. The latest news is that sugar rationing stamp books will be issued soon.

Many store keepers say that they can only get 25 per cent of the fruit jars, fruit jar covers and rubber rings of the amount they need a year ago. People are asked to raise garden stuff and can it, but if they cannot get adequate canning supplies, the question is raised will the garden stuff have to rot?

MONDAY MORNING THE ENTIRE NATION GOES ON NEW TIME

Time throughout the nation will change from standard to daylight savings commencing next Monday, February 9. Be sure to set your clocks and watches one hour ahead Sunday night.

Daylight savings time is to remain in effect throughout the duration of the war.

MYSTERIOUS LEAK HAS MOKENA WATER DEPT. PUZZLED

The Mokena Village Water Dept. has been puzzled over the loss of water from the village water tank. Efforts have been made to locate the undiscovered leak but so far no trace has been found of it.

Martin Muchler, water pumper, reports that he has kept the pumping station working over time and even though the water tower is full to the top by morning it is over half empty. In case of fire this would be a very serious situation.

All the mains have been tested and no leaks have been found. It is proposed to secure a water main leak detecting machine with the hope of locating the leak. It is presumed that wherever it has occurred it must be close to a drain tile and that the water drains out instead of coming to the surface as most leaks do.

The extra amount of pumping required has also boosted the water department pumping bill over 50 per cent.

RAILROAD FARES WILL BE RAISED 10 PER CENT ON FEBRUARY 10th

Commencing February 10, railroad commuters in this vicinity who are employed in Chicago will be obliged to pay a 10 percent increase in fares. This 10 percent applies to all monthly and commuter tickets as well as individual fares.

IRVING KNIGHT OF FRANKFORT MARRIES ST. LOUIS NURSE

Mr. Irving Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Knight of Frankfort and Miss Vivian Mansell, a graduate nurse of Rosaline hospital of St. Louis, were united in marriage the forepart of last week in a St. Louis church.

Miss Marjorie Knight and her friend Mr. DeTurk were the attendants. While in St. Louis they were the guests of Mr. Knight's sister Ruth who lives there.

Mr. Knight had been in army training but was released under the recent age limit. This past week he was recalled to army service, but before leaving for Fort Sheridan, decided to be married. He expects to be transferred soon to another army station.

Files Claim With Industrial Com. In Truck-Train Crash

A year ago last month Burton Krohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Krohn of New Lenox was killed when a Banner Blue limited of the Wabash railroad struck a delivery truck he was driving on the crossing near Marley.

A settlement was made with the railroad company for $500.00. Recently Melvin Whitaker, who the company paid to Mr. Krohn, whose employ Burton was at the time he was killed, received a notice from the Industrial Commission that a claim had been filed against him by Burton's father who claimed Burton was the sole support of the family.

Under the law, an employer is obliged to pay whatever amount the Industrial commission considers a fair amount in case of accidental death. A hearing was held at the Court house in Joliet on Tuesday of last week before the Representatives of the Industrial Commission Attorney Albert Krusemark representing Mr. Krohn asked for a continuance which was granted.

St. Olaf Choir To Appear In Chicago Feb. 16 and 17

Few musical organizations have enjoyed the unanimous acclaim of the critics as has the St. Olaf Choir, scheduled to appear in concert in Orchestra Hall on Monday and Tuesday evenings, February 16 and 17, under the sponsorship of the Chicago Bible Society and Norwegian Relief Inc.

St. Olaf Choir is composed of sixty carefully selected voices from the student body of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn. This famous group returns to Chicago this year by popular demand. Last year only one concert was given and hundreds of ticket requests had to be refused. This is perhaps the first time that a choir has been booked for consecutive nights in Orchestra hall.

The Choir had repeatedly toured the country from East to West, winning the highest praise from the music critics of leading newspapers. Glenn Dillard Gunn wrote in the Times Herald of Washington, D. C., January 31, 1941:

"Today Dr. Christiansen's chorus is comparable to Stokowski's orchestra. It discovers new tonal worlds, new acoustic experiences. It creates illusions, comparable to those wrought by Stokowski's hidden strings, echoes, faint reverberations that seem as remote as interstellar space. These are not mere technical stunts. They are aural symbols for spiritual mysteries toward which the whole world should turn in this moment of bloody, totalitarian realism."

It is difficult to convey to those who have not heard this singing group the likeness and control of the body of tone, for the sixty voices are exactly like one voice multiplied by sixty. The young people sing entirely from memory and without accompaniment. They have perfect pitch without even the use of a tuning fork.

The director is the genial, 70 year old, F. Melius Christiansen who is recognized as the outstanding choral conductor in the world. He is also fully as well known as a composer having arranged or composed more than four hundred anthems to be sung a capella. Those who have known the choir for the past twenty years will be interested in the initial appearance of Olaf C. Christiansen, son of the Director, as Associate Director.

To Observe Triple Anniversary

St. Peter's Evang. church at Frankfort will be the scene of an unusual event on Friday, February six, when Mr. and Mrs. Paul Heisner, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Barlow and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Minger will celebrate their 35th wedding anniversary. They were married 35 years ago by the late Rev. Lambrecht. They have been members of this church their entire married lives. Just as busy as it was on that memorable day, it repeats itself today for the three couples are the reasons for the hustling and preparation that is going on in the social room of the church. They will welcome all relatives and friends at a reception there from 6 p.m. on into the evening. Rev. Gerhold will give a short address and a small program will follow the usual open house celebration. All are invited, so make it a point to greet them and be able to attend this unique celebration tonight.

Mokena Garden Club Invited To Attend Orland Woman's Club Garden Meeting

An invitation has been extended to the Mokena Garden Club from the Orland Park Woman's Club to attend their garden meeting on Feb. 11 at 2:30 p.m. in the Methodist church.

Mr. B. J. McMillan of Vaughan's Seed Store will talk on "Spring Gardening." This should be a timely and interesting meeting.

Any member wishing to go should call or get in touch with other members who have cars or usually drive.

It was suggested by Mr. Mall and voted on at the last board meeting to allow the Mokena Garden Club $25.00 a year, toward their expenses in keeping up their projects and beautifying the town.

This is very much appreciated by the Garden club and any other contributions would gladly be accepted.

Frankfort School Children Write Appreciation Letters

A short time ago, under the auspices of the Frankfort Village Board, a Safety Cruiser, under the leadership of Capt. Berry came to Frankfort.

The citizenry were conducted thru the trailer and given instructions on how to prevent accidents etc. All school children were given special attention. It made such a favorable impression upon the pupils, that they wrote letters to the Village board members telling them how well they liked the instruction, both visible and audible, and thanked the board members for bringing the Cruiser to their village. Sixty eight pupils wrote these letters.

This step in safety was followed by the Pres. of the Village Board Mr. Geo. Sangmeister, who went to the Frankfort school last Friday and spoke to the pupils gathered in assembly. He told them how much the leaders of the Village were interested in the school children, to keep them strong and free from accidents as they are the future leaders of the community.

At the close of the assembly, Mr. Sangmeister visited each room and again spoke on Safety and asked all to sign the Safety Membership Cards, which they did, one by one coming to the front of the room, and with the up lifted hand, under oath, signed the pledge card which has the following eight points:

1. Not to ride to on a bicycle.
 2. Never to ride a bicycle at night without a red reflector and headlight.
 3. To take my little brother or sister out to the curb and explain the curb is the limit.
 4. Not to run out from between or around parked cars without looking from left to right for traffic.
 5. Always wait for the green light.
 6. Never to throw any body's cap or ball into the street on purpose.
 7. Never to depend on any driver to look out for me, but always to look out for myself.
 8. To obey all traffic rules.
- Then each pupil, after signing the above pledge, was given a safety button which is bright blue in color with a triangle in white with words "Safety Legion of America" on one side and on the other the words "Look to see, Stop to Think and Listen to Hear" with the stop lights of red, yellow, and green on it.

The Post Office also announces the total sales of Three Thousand and Four Defense savings stamps during the month of January with an ever increasing number of purchasers.

GOVERNMENT CALLED ON STOP WASTING PAPER

Rep. Robt. F. Jones, (R., O.), called on Leon Henderson this week to enforce conservation of paper among federal bureaus. Jones said in a letter to Henderson there was a "wide variety and extensive violation of the spirit of the conservation of paper program by the many bureaus of the federal government." He said the government spends 27½ million dollars a year on information and propaganda agencies.

The government is the biggest waster of paper in the country. Every day thousands of pieces of propaganda are received at newspaper offices. Very little of this matter can be used. If a paper would print all this material it would have no room for news or advertisements. Small slips of paper are placed in large catalogue envelopes when a small envelope would answer the same purpose. All this unnecessary waste must be cut out by the government. The public is asked to save waste paper and to save on paper while the government does just the opposite.

FRANKFORT VILLAGE BOARD TO ISSUE COURTESY STICKERS

The Frankfort Village Board at their regular meeting last Monday night approved a suggestion of the president of the Board, to have accommodation car stickers made, for those who do not live in any village or city thus needing to pay a vehicle tax, which stickers will give that information, which is often times needed when traveling into Chicago or other places where those cars not having a vehicle tax sticker are stopped and questioned as to the omission of same.

A small fee will be charged to cover the cost of having the stickers made, and anyone in nearby townships or territory who want a sticker may get one from the Frankfort village clerk. They are expected to be in in two weeks.

The Rev. B. R. Aman officiated at the ceremony which was performed before a candle lighted altar banked with palms and ferns.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Howard Ayres, played "Love Dreams" and Lohengrins wedding march.

To give his daughter in marriage Mr. Tauber accompanied her to the altar. The bride wore a powder blue bridal chiffon gown. On the long full sleeves were lace insets. The high waisted belt was also trimmed in lace. Her blue finger tip veil was held in place by a matching velvet halo. She carried a lovely handkerchief presented her from the girls she worked with. Her only jewelry was a Lavalier belonging to her mother. Her arm bouquet was of Rubrum lillies.

Attending her cousin as bridesmaid Miss Florence Keslie of Chicago wore a gown of pale pink chiffon. Colonial in style, the dress had short puff sleeves and a sweetheart neckline. Her veil was shoulder length and her Colonial bouquet was of pink tea roses, and blue sweet peas.

Attending Mr. Vally as best man was his cousin John Hauck, while James Tauber, cousin of the bride was the usher.

Wearing yellow chiffon, Miss Jean Shevlin of Mokena lighted the many altar candles preceding the service. Her corsage was also of tea roses and sweet peas.

Little Joan Batson, cousin of the groom wearing a dress of green taffeta and carrying a basket of pink and white rose petals, acted as Flower girl.

Frankfort Twp., Placed Under Rabies Quarantine

As a result of an over abundance of stray dogs and several instances where persons were attacked by them, has prompted the Mokena Village board to place a quarantine on all dogs in the village under the rabies state quarantine act. The Village of Frankfort and Township of Frankfort have agreed to cooperate in this quarantine to make it township-wide, and the State is assisting by furnishing placards and other aid as needed.

Owners of dogs are warned that they must be kept tied up or in an enclosure and not allowed to roam throughout the village. All dogs whose owners have paid for a dog license are also warned to keep their pets at home. The drive is just about to be opened and a special deputy will be appointed with instructions to shoot all strays and later if licensed dogs are not kept off the streets they will also be shot.

Heretofore it was impossible to do anything to eliminate the undesirable dogs on account of a law prohibiting the killing of these animals. Under the state rabies quarantine act this difficulty has now been overcome. There are two kinds of symptoms of the rabie disease. Some dogs are snapping and biting while others are in a kind of dull state having been infected with the disease, and are just as dangerous as the snapping kind.

Lack of food and cold is often the cause of bringing on the disease and also if the dog is bit by another one which has been infected with rabies.

In New Lenox Township there have been very many instances where cattle as well as persons have been bitten by infected dogs. At present 22 persons in New Lenox township are taking treatments against the rabies infection. The city of Joliet and Joliet Township have also had an epidemic of rabies, and dogs are being shot on sight. The Village Clerk Everett J. Cooper has applied for the necessary placards from the state and as soon as they arrive they will be posted throughout the village.

The drive against the dogs will then be on. Last week Mrs. Philip Eich of Mokena was attacked and bitten by a dog. Recently Mrs. Margaret also of Mokena, was attacked by a vicious dog but luckily was not bitten.

All dog owners are warned to give strict attention to the requirements to keep their animals tied up or in an enclosure. If taken out they must be on a leash.

The rabie quarantine act runs for a period of 90 days and in some instances longer.

The Burma Road

China's 'Life Line' Is Packed With Heroicism While Death Always Lurks

By CLIFF LANGE

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Dispatches to the newspapers in the United States have been keeping the people well informed on the Japanese activity in bombing the Burma road, life line of China. Since the United States declared war on Japan, news coming out on this famous road has been pushed to "inside pages" of newspapers because of other war activities closer to the people in the United States. Nevertheless, this road which means so much to China still plays an important part in the activity of the Allies against their enemies.

This famous road begins at Rangoon, India, as a rail line northeastward to Lashio, near the Chinese frontier. At Lashio the goods for embattled China are transferred to trucks and carried along the twisting, dangerous, wreckage-strewn highway to Chungking, headquarters of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's government.

From the railhead at Lashio, the Burma road in its 726 miles, crosses mountain ranges 10,000 feet high, and then plunges into canyons of two of the world's greatest rivers: the jungle hedged Mekong, and the verdant trimmed Salween. Within the distance of 40 miles—easily an hour's travel on a highway in the United States—this fascinating, adventure-packed highway rises and dips twice from 2,500 feet to 7,500 feet.

Throughout its tortuous length the road twists and turns through some of the most hazardous driving terrain in the world. The roadbed, in some places is just about nine feet wide, but never more than twenty. It hugs the edge of seemingly bottomless chasms, and sneaks over chassis-breaking ridges.

Engineering Feat.

It is no wonder that engineers consider this road as one of the world's greatest engineering feats, comparing with China's other great defensive effort, the Great Wall. Fortunately, this important highway carrying supplies to the capital of China was completed to its present condition before Japan attacked not needs so badly. The present conflict between the Soviets and the Nazis has practically cut off the supplies which had been coming from Russia, in the north.

This unusual shot of the Burma Road as it twists and curves over the mountains to Chungking has been compared to a snake. Possibly it will—as the story notes—the "snake" that will help strike down Japan in her present fight against the democracies.

Recently, American truck line transportation experts came through here on General Kai-shek's invitation on their way to inspect the road. Their purpose was to put greater co-ordination and efficiency in its operation. For reports of indifference, lassitude, and perhaps graft began to reach the General's ear. With a typical "westerner's" reaction he did something about it. The U. S. transportation officials came over for a check-up.

Over 400 trucks a day are rolling over the road loaded with American military supplies sent by terms of the lend-lease bill, and relief supplies sent through the United China Relief. These same trucks returning from China carry tungsten, tung oil, wolframite and other strategic U. S. defense-program materials to pay for these supplies.

Sudden Death.

Many lives were lost in building this road. Today, the loss of lives continues. Not so much from bombing by Japanese airmen, continually blasting away at it, especially the two major suspension bridges across the Salween and the Mekong, but from the drivers and the road workers on it. Since the road opened, 1,300 trucks have been destroyed by falling off the precipices along the hundreds of hairpin turns such as shown in the picture above.

Thousands, too, have fallen victim to malaria, for the road traverses the worst malarial swamp in the world. Medical relief on the road today is under the care of the American Society of Friends, member agency of United China Relief.

Since the inspection of the road by the traffic experts invited over by Generalissimo Kai-shek, many projects calculated to eliminate inefficiency and truck delays have been instituted.

A complete system of auto repair, gasoline and dispatching stations is being established along this vital route. A school for automobile mechanics, to teach the essentials of repair and maintenance, has been opened in Chungking by the College of Science of the University of Nanking.

The awakening, and fighting, Chinese aren't going to let it be said that they, once being shown how, didn't do anything to prevent their life-line from functioning properly.

At the present time the trip over the Burma road requires from 10 to 12 days of hard, tough driving. From the improvements recommended by the experts are made, the trip will take a week or less. Asphalting will improve the efficiency of the road and also reduce the ever lurking risks.

Hewn by Hand.

The Burma road will then be greatly different from the day when it was first completed by 150,000 peasant men and women, working entirely with hand tools, and who finished the job in a little more than a year. (American and British engineers estimated the job would take four years to complete.)

The immensity of the project is near appalling when it is remembered that those peasants actually hacked the road out of the granite cliff edges. Within a very short time the hand-crushed rock and gravel topping this highway-for-freedom will be asphalted.

In a short time, when the 30,000-ton figure is reached, providing the force of the Japan military machine doesn't achieve and keep the upper hand of the present battle now raging, the turning point in the war over here will be reached.

For then goods will be moving in sufficient volume to permit China's armies to undertake their first major sustained counter-offensive. A counter-offensive which will make the recent one against the Japs who were moving in on the beleaguered British at Shanghai, small in comparison.

Watch the military activities evolving about the Burma road. There, too, you will read more tales of great heroism such as have surrounded the road ever since it was first begun. The fate of the Burma road will decide the fate of the battle of the Pacific—and the battle of the Atlantic, too.

Wide Powers Given To State Governors For War Emergency

CHICAGO.—Armed with emergency war powers granted recently by their legislatures or by state statutes of 1917 still in force, most of the 48 governors are prepared for speedy mobilization of military and civilian resources of their states, a survey by the Council of State Governments indicates.

So broad are the governors' powers that it seems unlikely states will have to enact the mass of legislation found necessary during the first World war. For this reason, special sessions of the states in 1942—an off-legislative year—may be less numerous than anticipated.

The governors' war emergency powers, in addition to complete supervision of state defense councils, cover a wide range of subjects, from organizing state guards to controlling oil supplies. Twenty-seven states adopted state guard acts in 1940-1941, and in 26 of them the governor has authority to dispatch the guard in response to calls for help from neighboring governors.

Mobilizing State Resources.

In two states—Massachusetts and New Jersey—governors last year were authorized to undertake unusually wide wartime mobilization of state resources, according to the survey. The governor of Massachusetts is permitted to "take any measures which he may deem proper to carry into effect any request of the President of the United States for action looking to the national defense or to the public safety." Massachusetts last year also re-enacted a 1917 statute authorizing the governor to take possession of any equipment and supplies in the state for service of the state or country. This act further permits the governor to seize, sell or distribute gratuitously cattle, poultry, provisions, fuel, gasoline and other materials to inhabitants of the state.

The New Jersey act, approved late last month, directs the governor to render the United States in the present crisis any assistance within the power of the state. To accomplish this, he may organize and employ any and all resources within the state, whether men, properties or instrumentalities, and is directed to exercise any or all power convenient or necessary in his judgment to give such assistance.

Nine other states, under 1917 statutes, give the governor power to organize all of the state's resources.

Practically every state constitution provides the governor shall be the commander-in-chief of the militia and volunteer forces of the state, the council survey showed. Twelve states have provided specifically by statute for the declaration of a state of martial law by the governor.

In 12 states also the governor can appoint special police to guard strategic areas. Nebraska and New York give their governors particularly wide powers in the use of county or municipal officers to enforce criminal laws, it was pointed out.

No Relaxing Bans on Civilian Supplies, Due For More . . . Profits On War Material O. K.

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

WASHINGTON.—Experts on strategic materials simply shake their heads when asked whether they will be able to get their hands on enough steel, copper, lead, zinc, rubber, etc., to provide for the latest stepping-up of national defense needs.

The whole picture is best illustrated by a high official of OPM into whose office the writer walked within half an hour after President Roosevelt finished his outline of planes, tanks, etc., which MUST be made in 1942 and 1943.

"Can we do it?" I asked.

"Why, it's ridiculous," he shouted. "It's not a question of money. But where are we going to get the stuff? It's impossible."

He had pounded his desk in anger at the first word. Then he relaxed into gloom. There was a moment of silence. Then a sheepish grin overspread his face.

"You know," he said, "when the President said we must make 50,000 planes a year I said THAT was absurd—that it couldn't be done. Well, along about July we WILL be making planes at the rate of 50,000 a year."

There was another pause.

"So I guess we will do what he asks, even if it is impossible," he concluded. "Now, what in the world are you bothering me today for?"

Demands to Be Met!

The point of all this now is that the President's specifications as to the number of planes, tanks, ships, guns, etc., WILL be met, in all human probability—BUT—don't look for any relaxing of present bans on civilian supply. Things are going to get tougher, not easier, and it would be wise to face that prospect with our eyes open.

Down at the OPM offices the chief complaint is that everybody thinks an exception should be made in HIS case. The company that has spent a fortune convincing customers that coffee is better in vacuum tins; the vegetable and fruit and meat canners, who incidentally have been backed strongly by the department of agriculture.

Worst offender of all is Civilian Defense!

"The idea of a million air-raid wardens being told to get two shovels, and two pails, and every household being told to get two flashlights," snorted one official worried about strategic materials.

"It would be much better to let a lot of houses be burned by incendiary bombs than to use so much metal in taking precaution against raids that we would not have enough fighter planes to drive the bombers away," he said. "Why, these Civilian Defense people have gone crazy."

Then there were the people who thought the tremendous inventories of the big motor companies would mean production of cars until those inventories are cleaned up.

"The best copper mine we are going to discover," said one of the strategic material experts, "is in the inventories of a lot of manufacturers, especially the forehand boys who saw the trouble coming and stocked up beyond all reason so they would be able to carry on."

"It is perfectly true that some of the materials we want already have been fabricated, and that it will be uneconomic to reclaim them. But war is a mighty uneconomic business, and expense is no object when we are worrying about getting planes and guns."

OPM Official Tells Plan for War Goods

The aluminum drive was a case where the public co-operated with totally unexpected enthusiasm. Aluminum poured in! And so did a lot of stuff folks thought was aluminum, but wasn't. This would not have made any difference if the stuff had been cleared through ordinary junk dealers, who would have sorted out the material, packed it in an orderly way for shipping, and delivered it where it was needed.

But there was a passion for eliminating all profit, so the people who know how to handle junk were bypassed, and a terrific waste resulted. "What we want to do now," said one of the OPM men, worrying about strategic materials, to a little group, "is to get this collection of materials for reclamation on a profit basis. We want somebody to handle it in each community who knows how to handle it, and we are perfectly willing for him to make a profit on it."

"As far as we are concerned we are willing for him not only to make all expenses, but a good profit besides. It is not the cost of strategic materials that is important, this year or next year or maybe the year after that—it is getting them."

King Places Love Before Tradition To Wed Commoner

Second Bride of Leopold Signs Away Rights to Belgian Throne.

LONDON.—Lonely, prematurely gray King Leopold of the Belgians has taken a second bride to console him for the tragedies life has heaped upon him.

The 40-year-old monarch, captive of the Germans who overran his country, chose as his helpmate Mary Lilian Baels, 30, vivacious and beautiful daughter of Hendrik Baels, formerly governor of East Flanders and minister of health, public works and agriculture in various Belgian cabinets. He is a descendant of sturdy Ostend fisherfolk who got into politics by way of the law.

The world can readily imagine why Leopold of Belgium married again. His life at the Castle of Laeken at Brussels has been singularly lonely since that day in May, 1940, he capitulated to the invaders.

It was, he said, to save his people from further massacre and distress. The bride is well known in England. During the first world war, Mlle. Baels, her mother and her sister were in England, refugees from the German invasion.

Bride Waives Title.

In announcing the recent marriage, Cardinal Van Roey, primate of Belgium, said:

"I have been empowered to add that this marriage concerns only the king's private and family life and has no legal consequences of public or legal nature. An authentic act by the sovereign confirms that the king's wife rejected the title and rank of queen—a condition which she herself proposed for the marriage. She will hold the title of princess of Rethy. In the same document the king declared that eventual offspring of this marriage will have no hereditary right to the throne."

King Leopold III of the Belgians is a collateral descendant of Leopold I, a Coburg prince, who ascended the throne of Belgium in 1831. In 1926, he married the lovely young Princess Astrid of Sweden, youngest daughter of a brother of King Gustav.

Their happiness was marred on February 17, 1934, when the prince's father, King Albert, was killed in a fall while mountain climbing.

Queen Astrid Killed.

Eighteen months later another grievous blow struck Leopold, then king of the Belgians. While on a motor trip with Queen Astrid in Switzerland, their car swerved off the road, went into a ditch and Astrid was catapulted against a tree and fatally injured.

His mother, Queen Elizabeth, took over the care of the three children left by Astrid.

The clouds of a second war multiplied the burdens of the young king who sought desperately to spare his country and the world from the horrors of another armed clash. Despite his efforts, Belgium was again invaded, her troops driven back before the onslaught of the Nazis' mechanized might.

The allies, on May 27, 1940, heard with dismay that Leopold had given up the struggle, had capitulated to the enemy. The king was excoriated, blamed for collapse of the French and British armies that speedily followed.

He retired, with Nazi permission, to Laeken castle. Until the recent announcement of his marriage, which followed the ceremony by nearly three months, little was heard of Leopold, except that his hair had turned gray.

Briton Digs Up Crock of Coins Dating to 1344

SITTINGBOURNE, ENGLAND.—Not at the end of a rainbow but in his own back garden Harry Baker of Chantry Cottages, Bredgar, Kent, came upon a crock of gold.

Baker, "digging for victory" in an unused part of his garden, against the cottage wall, which used to be part of an old monastery, turned up an earthenware crock. Picking it up to fling it aside, a stream of gold fell at his feet.

There were 1,000 coins, which were identified as nobles, half nobles, and quarter nobles, of the reign of Edward III, 1344. They are considered worth from $20 each downwards, according to their gold content.

The coins were believed to have been struck to commemorate the naval victory of Sluys and they bear a Latin inscription believed to have been a charm against thieves.

By the law of treasure trove, objects of gold and silver found hidden in soil or buildings, and of which the original owner cannot be found, are crown property.

One-Legged Chinaman Saves 82 at Hong Kong

LONDON.—A one-legged Chinese admiral led a party of 82 Britons and Chinese to safety from Hong Kong the day the British island capitulated, according to a Reuter dispatch from Chungking. Adm. Chan Chak, a liaison officer, organized a fleet of five launches, loaded them with refugees, including two British naval commanders, two majors and two captains, and took them through the Japanese blockade.

Scholl Employees Sign Up 100% for Defense Bonds

AT a given hour recently, every one of the more than 1,000 employees of The Scholl Mfg. Co. Inc., located throughout the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean and from border to border, affixed his or her signature to a United States Savings Bond Pledge card. Thus, The Scholl Mfg. Co. secured 100 per cent co-operation in this campaign in the shortest time of any organization in the country.

As its contribution toward the employees' bond-buying program, The Scholl Mfg. Co. will pay a liberal share of the cost of the first bond purchased by each employee under the payroll allotment plan devised by the U. S. Treasury Department.—Adv.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Interesting Notes on the Famous Burma Road

With hand tools only, 150,000 Chinese peasant men and women completed it in less than 13 months.

It is 726 miles long, and hacked out of the edges of granite cliffs. The road spans 2,000 culverts and 300 bridges, including two major suspension bridges across the Salween and the Mekong.

Since opened, 1,300 trucks have been destroyed by falling off precipices on its hundreds of hairpin turns. A recent estimation (actual movements are a military secret) place the present volume over it from 18,000 to 20,000 tons a month. The present trip over it requires from 10 to 12 days of hard driving. It crosses mountain ranges 10,000 feet high—plunges into canyons of two of the world's greatest rivers.

DEEP WATER ISLAND

by ALAN LEMAY

W-N-U-RELEASE

INSTALLMENT TEN

THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Waterson, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate of her grandfather, Garrett Waterson, has come to Honolulu to attempt getting the property. In an effort to find out something about the Wayne family, now in control of Alakoa, the island, she accepts a date to go sailing with Richard (Tonga Dick) Wayne. Against her wishes he takes her to Alakoa. While there, James Wayne, Dick's uncle and manager of the property, is found dead from overwork. While taking Karen back to Honolulu, next day, Dick tells her he loves her but they later quarrel. Dick then sees John Colt and when a compromise offer to him fails he tells Colt that their Pacific venture will fail. He goes back to Alakoa and tells his half-brothers that he knows Garrett Waterson to be alive. They question his word. Now continue with the story.

"Granting that an ordinary man might drop out of sight that way," Willard said, "it still would have been impossible for Garrett Waterson. He was too big, too important."

Dick was getting disgusted again. "No, he wasn't—he only imagined he was. Once he was broke, he wasn't of any importance or interest to anybody—except to you, and to you only because you thought he was a skeleton in the closet. Doubtless this will surprise you, but the fact is that Alakoa is a small, obscure, and unimportant speck on the map, suitable for supporting a few hundred people, and of no other significance whatever. The fact that Garrett Waterson once had hold of it for a while would not distinguish him in the eyes of anybody, except yourselves."

Both brothers looked scandalized. "If all this can be proved," Ernest began, "I mean, if his actual identity can be proved—"

"Of course it can be proved! It's a plain, demonstrable fact—can't you understand that?"

"If Dick is to be believed," Willard said, "our worries are over, Ernest. They can go ahead and investigate their heads off and it won't get 'em a thing. And Karen Waterson's case against us falls flat as—"

"As a bird in the hand," Dick suggested.

Suddenly a new angle occurred to Willard Wayne. "I suppose," he said, "since you are working for Waterson, as you say, this boat of yours isn't yours at all, but his—is that right?"

"Then," said Willard, "whatever business he's in now, he must be enjoying a considerable success. That alone ought to furnish proof that he's competent."

"Unfortunately, there's a catch in that, too," said Dick, "and it's a big one."

"Just what business is he in?" Ernest demanded. "Where does his money come from? Or is that something else that isn't supposed to concern us?"

"It concerns you very much," Dick said.

"Well?"

Dick Wayne grinned sardonically, even maliciously, and stood up, preparatory to walking out. "Ask Garrett Waterson," he suggested. "If he doesn't feel like telling you, it won't do you any good to know."

John Colt, aboard a Diesel boat hardly better than the sampans the Japanese fishermen used, arrived at Alakoa at sunset.

Dick Wayne, watching the little vessel blunder and grope its way through the reefs—she was sounding frantically with no less than three lead lines—knew at once that the one-eyed Captain Ramey had managed to sell John Colt a charter at last, if only for an excursion.

Ramey's boat dropped anchor five hundred yards from the Holokai. Evidently Dick's brothers had sent orders to the dock that John Colt should be brought to the house immediately upon arrival for Alakoa's shore launch put out immediately, Hokano steering, and took off John Colt. Tonga Dick watched this maneuver impassively. There was no longer any danger that his brothers would be bluffed into something by Colt. The decision would rest with Waterson himself, and no one else.

He got his binoculars now and focused them upon Ramey's boat. The swift twilight of the latitude was closing sharply, but the glasses were still able to bring out every detail aboard the Diesel boat. The little tramp vessel sat awkwardly on the water, her snub nose tilted upward inane. She had a disorderly, faintly disreputable look, but Dick knew she concealed a surprising turn of speed.

Karen Waterson was leaning over the rail, talking to Captain Ramey. Dick could see the stitching in her narrow hat brim, and the shadow of her lashes. The movement of her lips, while he could hear no least sound of her voice, had a strange effect, making her seem immeasurably far away.

As darkness fell, Dick saw Captain Ramey leave Karen's side, and in a moment or two a light showed in the Seal's galley. Tonga Dick smiled a little, without much humor, as he deduced from this that Ramey had been left in the lurch by his cook.

Now the shore boat put out from the dock again, this time pointing directly to the Holokai. Tonga Dick watched it approach with a minimum of interest. By the time it was coughing alongside, he had made up his mind that if his brothers had sent for him he was not going to go ashore until he very well felt like it. But it was Charles Wong, who, with an unexpected, lank agility, pulled himself over the Holokai's rail.

"What do they want up there now?" Dick asked wearily.

"Nothing, Mr. Dick, that I know." Wong was nervous; there was a flutter in his long-boned hands as he produced a twisted slip of paper. "I came to you of my own thought. Up at our receiving station they keep hearing some ship calling the Holokai—they can't tell what ship. Its call letters aren't listed—no one ever heard them before. We think it may be some outlaw station. At any rate, the call comes in very persistently; and we didn't hear you answer, so I came to tell you."

"What were the call letters?"

"I have them written here."

Tonga Dick took the paper Wong offered him and unfolded it. Even before he made out its typewritten characters in the failing light, he knew what ship it would be.

"They were still calling when you left the house?"

"Yes, sir."

"Come here, Wong."

Tonga Dick ran back along the deck and dived into the little kennel, abaft the galley, which served as a radio shack, and Charles Wong came pattering after him. He clamped on his earphones and carefully with micrometer delicacy, began to turn the big dial of the short wave receiver; but for minutes there was no result.

"He must have shut down," Dick said at last. "If you catch it again at the Alakoa station, you'd better answer and take the—"

Just then the hunted signal came in, so powerfully that the effect was blasting. Somewhere, unexpectedly close at hand, Garrett Waterson was calling Dick Wayne from the sea.

Dick quieted the blocked and clattering receiver. "Good Lord! He's right on top of us! Yes, he's calling us, all right."

Dick's earphones were beginning to zing with the measured letters of a message that was something more than news.

"SAR WIT WATERSON ABOARD QTP ALAKOA 2 HRS."

Dick Wayne could not believe his own ears. Angrily he worked his key, sending out a protest—

"RPT ALL—RPT—"

The message from the sea hesitated and started over again. Abruptly it changed its pace, breaking into a racing chatter.

"WHT IN HELL IS MTR U CANT U UNDERSTAND ENGLISH QTP 10 PM STAND OUTSIDE CORAL TO PILOT THRU SHOALS—G WATERSO QSL?"

Tonga Dick Wayne acknowledged with a curt "QSL," and shut off his generator.

"Garrett Waterson's power yacht Sarah will be in two hours," he told Wong, "and—Waterson himself is on board."

Charles Wong, stumbling after him out of the radio shack, looked as if he had seen a ghost; obviously he had been able to hear, and to understand, the international code.

"Do—do you want your brothers to know?"

"It doesn't make a particle of difference, either way."

Charles Wong waited a moment, and seemed about to say something more; but changed his mind, and lowered himself over the side into the waiting boat.

The launch chattered its way back to the dock, and presently, after its voice had died, there came across the water the sound of a racing automobile engine as Charles Wong, handling his car badly, raced through the village toward the hills.

Dick stood for some minutes with his hands on the rail, staring at the darkening sea. Roughly checking known distance against the relative speeds of the Sarah and the Holokai, he estimated that Garrett Waterson must have pointed the Sarah north no more than a few hours after Dick had set sail with the Holokai.

Hurriedly Dick Wayne's eyes swept the bay. An outrigger canoe, sailed silently in the light air by a single Hawaiian spearman, was coming in across the still water from a day's fishing beyond the reefs. Dick sent a low whistle across the water, and the outrigger sheered in close to the side of the Holokai.

"Take me over to that stranger boat," Tonga Dick swung over the rail and dropped into the moving canoe.

"Okay, Captain Dick."

Karen Waterson was still standing by the rail, quiet and alone, as the silent outrigger sliced close. Tonga Dick stood up, reached the boat's low rail, and swung aboard.

"Stand on and off," Dick told the Kanaka fisherman, "and wait for me."

CHAPTER X

The outrigger moved off a little, drifting idly. It was the girl who spoke first, her voice hushed in the quiet.

"I thought you might come over here."

Dick Wayne leaned close to her so that their shoulders touched, and held his voice low, hoping that Captain Ramey would not be brought out of his galleys.

"I have something to tell you," he said. "Something's happened—the whole situation is changed. John Colt can't accomplish anything here. The fight is off, and if it starts again it will be on an entirely new basis."

She waited, and in the rapidly thickening dark he could not see what was in her eyes.

"Karen," Dick said, "you are not an heiress; and you have no claim upon Alakoa. You see, Karen—your grandfather is alive."

There was a long minute of uneasy silence. He didn't expect her to believe him, at least not at first. Shock, incredulity, refusal to accept the truth—he supposed he would have to contend against all of these before he could go on.

Karen's answer astonished him when it came. She spoke in a low drawl.

"You know, I rather thought so, Dick."

Having braced himself for an uphill attempt to convince her, Dick was taken aback. "Why—how on earth did you know?"

"John Colt admitted that one thing might destroy our case—and wouldn't tell me what it was. Then yesterday, when you told him that you could bring our claims to nothing it seemed to me that he believed you, though he wouldn't admit it. He hardly would have come here if he hadn't feared a new development, would he? So—the only thing I could think of was that my grandfather might still be alive, and that you had dug him up."

"He'll be here soon, Karen—very soon."

She considered that, her eyes on the disappearing horizon. "It will be strange to see him. I suppose I will see him, won't I? It's going to be like—meeting a ghost. He's been such a vague, misty, sort of gigantic figure, overshadowing everything for so many months—ever since John Colt first convinced me that I might have a right to Alakoa. A great, legendary figure, lost in the past. And now, to actually see him, face to face—it's very surprising."

"Who knows what standpoint he will take? Garrett Waterson has always been a man given to extreme views. For all I know he may jump to the conclusion that he would like to recover the island, and hand it over to you."

"To me? After I've tried to prove—"

"Why not? Garrett Waterson's later years have been bitterly lonely. It seems to me very likely that he will wish to do just that. Certainly John Colt will undertake to show him exactly how it can be done; Colt will be ready to handle all details—Waterson needs only to make a decision, and the whole thing is as good as accomplished."

"You mean my grandfather could recover Alakoa?"

"He's in perfectly sound mind. But he can have himself shown incompetent if he wants to—God knows he's eccentric enough."

"But Dick—that's fraud!"

"It's just what you and John Colt started to do in the first place."

A BUSY SABBATH IN CAPERNAUM

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:21-34.
GOLDEN TEXT—I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day.—Revelation 1:10.

The Sabbath of the Jew and the Lord's Day (Sunday) of the Christian were both intended to be days of rest. The ordinary activities of life were to cease and one was to be free to worship and to rest. The manner in which a man uses this God-given day of rest is a remarkably accurate indicator of his spiritual condition.

We have before us the account of a very busy Sabbath day which our Lord spent in Capernaum, the city in which most of His mighty works were done, but which ignored Him and His teaching to its own destruction (see Matt. 11:23, 24). As we look at our Lord's activity on that Sunday to make them bear fruit for eternity. We find Him in three places.

I. In the Church (vv. 21-28).

The Sabbath day found our Lord with His people in the synagogue, their place of worship. The service of worship was probably formal and lacking in spiritual vitality, but none-the-less He was there. What have we to say if we miss the opportunity for fellowship and service which church attendance brings us?

Observe that because He was there He (as a distinguished religious teacher) was called upon to teach the people. He taught them in the serene consciousness of His divine authority, and the people were delighted and astonished at His message. We may not serve exactly as He did, but if we present ourselves in God's house on His day we will find the way opening for us to share in the worship.

Jesus not only spoke, but He performed a miracle. Certain it is that we could not do what He did, but we can be ready to give ourselves in service as well as in worship, or in speaking. There is much work to be done in the church, and God's people should be ready and willing to do it.

II. In the Home (vv. 29-31).

From the synagogue Christ went into the home. How appropriate! We too should go from the church to the home, always bringing with us the strength and blessing of the worship service.

The daughter of a great preacher and Bible teacher said the thing she most loved in her father was that he did not give out the "cream" of his Christianity in his meetings and bring home the "skim milk." Too often we fail to bring into the home the power and beauty of the service in the church. We who have been very sweet and spiritual in the church should not come home to be sour and crabbed.

Jesus brought a blessing into Peter's home, miraculously healing his mother-in-law of a great fever, setting her free to serve. Here again we cannot do what He did, but we can, in His name, bring power and blessing into our homes.

III. In the City (vv. 32-34).

From the home the ministry of Jesus reached out to the entire city. As the strict laws forbidding travel on the Jewish Sabbath were set aside by the coming of sundown, not only the city but the entire countryside brought their sick and needy to Him.

The scene staggers the imagination as one attempts to conceive of this coming together of troubled humanity for the Master's touch. Mark tells us that He healed many; Matthew, that He healed all, and Luke, the physician, is emphatic in saying that He healed every one of them.

We may learn from this incident that our Christian faith, which has been developed and strengthened by our time of worship and service in the church, should not only reflect itself in the home, but should reach out into the life of the community in which we live. The primary interest of the Christian in his city or the place of his residence should be spiritual, a desire to bring to bear upon the people of the community the power of the gospel.

There is, however, a secondary responsibility which is of much importance and that is the extending of Christian influence into every phase of school, social, political, and business life. It is said that when D. L. Moody came into a barber shop the entire course of the conversation changed. The Christian should have an influence on problems of social welfare, the work of the public schools, the proper conduct of business in the community, and surely upon its political life. It is said that if every Christian in America would vote according to his professed convictions we could put the saloons out of business in a single election. Why not do it?

Household Hints

Always put knife in boiling water for a few seconds before cutting cake that has been iced. Then you will be able to cut without breaking the icing.

Use a clean sheet of wrapping paper to roll pies and pastry on. It saves a lot of cleaning up later.

Cut off the leg of an old stocking and stretch it over the new broom down to a short distance above the ends of the straws. This will prevent it from wearing out so fast and at the same time make it better for sweeping.

A teaspoon of flour mixed with the hot grease in which you fry eggs will keep them from popping.

Oven-burned dishes can be cleaned by soaking them in a solution of borax and water.

Cook County
Central Committee
Names Candidates

After extended consideration of various candidates, the following have been approved by the Cook Co. Central Committee as candidates from the County towns in the April primaries: For Pres. and member of the Board of County Commissioners, Wm. Busse of Mount Prospect; for members of the Board of County Commissioners: Wm. Busse, Geo. Miller of Oak Park, Wm. N. Erickson of Evanston, Geo. Nixon of Glenview, and John Mackler of Chicago Heights. The Committee's approval of Mr. Mackler gives recognition to the contention of the southern end of the county, that it is entitled to representation on the Board. Several candidates from other sections withdrew in order that a well balanced slate might thus be presented to Republican voters.

The name of Wm. Busse is well known to all Cook County voters. His long record of public service involving many years service as County Commissioner earned for him the dual role of being a candidate for President as well as member of the board.

Geo. A. Miller has had years of experience as Commissioner and represents the populous Oak Park and other central portions of the County towns.

Wm. N. Erickson is completing his second term as Commissioner while Geo. Nixon is completing his first term.

John Mackler, who is cast to succeed the late H. Wallace Caldwell as Commissioner, has long been a Republican leader in Southern Cook County, is a man of broad business experience, and is strongly endorsed by his friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Bernice T. Van der Vries of Winnetka and Arthur W. Sprague of LaGrange, announced their candidacies for re election as State Representatives and will receive the organization support in the 7th Senatorial District. Concurrently, Arthur Bidwell of River Forest announced that he would again be a candidate for the office he now holds State Senator from the 7th Senatorial District.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BE RICH to help American Defense. That's the theme of the above poster, one of the newest of the Defense Savings promotional pieces now going up in streetcars, on bulletin boards, and at other public places. IN MEMORIAM

In fond and loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Carrie Cappel Hurley who passed away
nine years ago, Feb. 4, 1933.
A kind daughter, beloved by all,
Has answered the summons of Heaven's call;

A beautiful life has passed away,
Passed on to the land of perfect day.

What a comforting thought of those knowing her best,
To feel assured of her perfect rest.

When the Heavenly Father calls
we must obey,
Be it evening or morning or the height of day,

But we all may rejoice as He knoweth best
And gives His children the home of the blest,

So the trials of life for her are over
When she passed on to the Heavenly shore.

By DOROTHY ROBSON

The first annual evening card party, sponsored by the Palos Woman's Club will be held Saturday, Feb. 7th at 8 p. m. at the Palos Park Village Hall, located at 123rd street and 89th ave. Proceeds will go to the welfare work of the club. Husbands, wives, sons, daughters, aunts and uncles come out and enjoy a game of bridge, pinocle, 500 or rummy, hearts or what have you. There will be a prize for every table and refreshments will be served. So be sure and put an x on your calendar and plan to attend this card party.

In spite of the terrible rain and fog Friday night a good crowd turned out to the Civilian Defense meeting held at the Village Hall. In addition to the list published last week, the present township office holders were appointed as members of the advisory committee. A speaker from civilian defense headquarters in Chicago was present and told about the jobs that every citizen can do in the defense organization. People signed up for a first aid class which will be started in the very near future. The meeting was in charge of Dr. A. M. Bressler, chairman and Robert A. Firalyo, coordinator. It was announced that a defense ball will be held Saturday evening, Feb. 21 at 8 p. m. at the Village Hall for the benefit of the Civilian Defense Fund. address. Most of these registration stations will be established in local schools. Watch the papers a few days before registration day and you will find a complete list of all the registration stations. Look for the station listed under the township in which you live and then go to that station closest to your home. You must register within your own township.

WHAT TIME IN THE DAY WOULD BE BEST FOR REGISTERING? The earlier the better; do not put off registering until the last minute. It would be best to leave your house early and register before you go to work.

WILL I BE "DOCKED" BY MY EMPLOYER IF I TAKE TIME OFF FROM WORK IN ORDER TO REGISTER? That is a question that can be answered by your employer only. The President has urged all employers and government agencies to give employees time off to register.

MUST I REGISTER ON FEBRUARY 16 IF I AM AWAY FROM HOME? Yes, you must register on that date regardless of where you are. Simply go to a convenient registration station and give your home address in whatever city you reside. Your registration card will be forwarded to the Local Board in your home city. (Note: You alone have the privilege of deciding which board shall have jurisdiction.)

WHAT IF I AM OUT OF THE COUNTRY ON FEB. 16, WHEN DO I REGISTER? Just as soon as possible after your return to the United States Territory.

SUPPOSE I AM SICK IN A HOSPITAL ON FEB. 16, HOW WILL I BE REGISTERED? By a special registrar who will visit the hospital. If you are sick at home and cannot go to the registration station on February 16, send a relative or friend to your local board office to make special arrangements to have you registered at home on that day.

CAN I REGISTER AHEAD OF FEB. 16? No, unless you are actually employed in defense production work, in which case you can register at your own local board office on Saturday, Feb. 14 from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m. and on Sunday, February 15, from 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. at the Lemont Township High School or the Midlothian Lions Clubhouse, 147th Place, Midlothian.

DO I GET SPECIAL NOTICE TO REGISTER ON FEB. 16? No, the President has issued a proclamation calling for the registration of those men of certain ages, and that proclamation is deemed sufficient public notice to all concerned.

IF I MOVE TO ANOTHER CITY AFTER FEB. 16, MUST I REGISTER AGAIN IN ACCORDANCE WITH MY NEW ADDRESS? No, definitely no. You must register only ONCE. Whenever you change your address, you must immediately notify the Local Board which has your registration card. You could move a dozen times, but you will still be under the jurisdiction of your original board which has your card.

WHEN WILL MEN OF 45 YEARS AND UP TO 64 BE REGISTERED? No one but the President can answer that question. When he is ready for such men to register, he will issue a proclamation accordingly. This also applies to young men of 18 and 19 years of age.

WHAT IS THE PENALTY FOR DELIBERATE FAILURE TO REGISTER ON FEB. 16? Imprisonment for not more than five years and a fine of not more than $10,000 or both.

ORLAND PARK

CARD OF THANKS

We sincerely thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for their acts of kindness and sympathy shown us in the recent illness and death of our beloved father. We also thank Pastor A. Lach for his comforting words, the singers and all who sent floral offerings and those who so kindly donated the use of their cars.

THE CHRIST BREITBARTH FAMILY.

Miss Charlyn Knox, who has been night operator at the Orland Palos Telephone exchange for the past year, has resigned that position to accept the position of office Secretary for the Orland Park Grade and Community High schools.

The Orland Legion Auxiliary will hold their regular meeting in the Legion Hall, February 13 at 8 p.m. So many different service situations are arising from week to week that demand immediate attention and action and it is the desire of the President, Mrs. Herman Kruspe, that every member of the Auxiliary make a special effort to attend all meetings in order to be in a position to meet these demands when they arise.

Rev. H. L. Brett and Mrs. Brett, Mrs. Harriet Gee, Mrs. Mollie Reish, Mrs. Marks and Mrs. Lillian Knox attended the Annual meeting of the Chicago Southern District of the Rock River Conference at the Thorburn Methodist church, Chicago, on Wednesday, January 28.

The WSCS of the Methodist church held their regular monthly meeting in the church parlors on Thursday January 29. An excellent turnout was present and the usual pot luck dinner was served. Mrs. Geo. Hawk of Midlothian, Assistant chairman of Christian Social Relations and Local church activities for the Conference was the speaker.

Plans were made for a drive for the collection of old paper and rags. This drive is to last throughout the whole month of February. Members are requested to bring or send their contributions directly to the church. Paper, in order to be handled, should be securely tied in bundles and the rags in bags. Mr. Ralph Agate will supervise the disposal of the paper and rags collected and the sum realized from the sale of which will go into the organization service fund.

The Adult Bible class of the Methodist church will meet (Wednesday) February 11 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. David Agate. Those who have cars are requested to contact those who do not drive in order to bring out a full complement of the members. An interesting meeting is anticipated.

The Bake Sale sponsored by the Adult Bible Class announced for two weeks ago and which was postponed twice once on account of the death of Mrs. Ella Myrick and again because of icy weather, will definitely be held Saturday, February 7 at 2 p.m. in Loebe's Store. Members are requested to bring or send their contributions before 2 p.m. the day of the sale.

Miss Lockhart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lockhart of Blue Island and will be married to Donald Uthe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Uthe of Orland Park, February 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the Evangelical Community church, 120th and Gregory Street, Blue Island.

Mrs. Estand is an expert in embroidery, knitting, crocheting and sewing and is willing to give her service as instructor to anyone desiring to do service work. In addition to the 10 and 12 year old group, which will meet at her home on Monday afternoon, she will devote every Thursday afternoon to instruction of girls in a group from 12 weas of age and up. This project is being sponsored by the Legion Auxiliary and for the time being work will be confined to knitting 4 inch squares which will be sent to the "Bundles for Blue-jackets" project which in turn they will be converted into articles most needed by that organization.

Mrs. Ersel Creeer suffered a sprained ankle last week and Mrs. Stewart Loebe substituted for her at school as teacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Townsend and daughter Gladys just recently returned from visiting him in Biloxi and reported that he was in the pink of health and enjoyed his work and consequently the news of his sudden transfer came as a surprise to them.

Wrestling Bout At Catholic High, Joliet

A good two-hour show with two fans will be glad to know that Joliet's Sports Promoter, Walter Shaughnessy is again getting under way with his professional wrestling show Friday evening, Feb. 6th at Joliet Catholic High Gymnasium.

A good two hour show with two of the best in the business heading the card will be at the opener.

"King Kong" Clayton, a huge Negro heavy weight who has all of the characteristics of his name sake will meet Ignacio Martinez in the main bout. This bout will go over the 60 minute route with two falls out of three deciding the winner.

Martinez carries 250 pounds of bone and muscle on his 6 foot 6 inch frame and figures to give the Negro King Kong plenty of trouble. Ignacio once held Jim Londos World's Champion and Bronko Nagarski also a World's Champion, each to a one hour draw. Neither Bronko nor "Jeem" the Golden Greek could pin him. King Kong has no set rules of wrestling. He just goes in and roughs an opponent with every trick either ethical or unethical until he wears them down. This bout is a natural.

The other bouts feature Gorilla Grubmyer versus John Melas and Leelle Lamara versus "Cry Baby" Mike Kilonis. Grubmyer is another "meanie" who likes his wrestling rough and the rougher the better. John Melas is a discovery of "Irish" Jack Conley's and Conley will be in his corner to lend him moral support against the gorilla.

Seelie Samara is another heavy weight negro and a credit to his race and wrestling. Whereby Kilonis is a very clever wrestler. He is strictly a cry baby and is forever calling on the fans and referee to witness how he is being abused. The opener gets under way at 8:30 p. m.

At The Roxy

Meet the super-super scooper and the exclusive in action, comedy and thrills, the man after a story and a woman's heart, "Comrade X", upholding the superb performances of Clark Gable and Hedy Lamarr, which will be featured at the Roxy Theatre at Lockport, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, plus a second feature of "Honolulu Lu", with Lupe Velez, Leo Carrillo and Bruce Bennett.

A beautiful blonde is WANTED. Kiss her and you doom a thousand men. Love her and you wreck an entire nation. She is Ilona Massey casted in the role of "International Lady", which will be featured at the Roxy Theatre next Wednesday, and Thursday, with a supporting cast of George Brent and Basil Rathbone.

Invitation to Dinner—Tasty Onion Soup
(See Recipes Below)

Let's Serve Soup

Something hot, something to warm up the system and something to stir the appetite into action so it can enjoy the meal itself—this is soup. Good companion to a dinner on cool nights or main dish for a luncheon, this is the reputation soup has acquired. So give a lift to your meals and get the appetites off to a brisk start. These savory soup recipes will help you:

*Onion Soup.

(Serves 4 to 6)
2 slices bacon, cubed
4 sweet Spanish onions
2 tablespoons flour
1 quart milk
Salt and pepper
Stale bread
Grated American cheese

Fry cubed bacon slowly over low heat, stirring constantly until fat is extracted. Lift out crisp bacon bits and set aside. Place thinly sliced onions in pan with some of bacon fat and saute until clear and tender. Sprinkle flour over onions, blend, add milk and crisp bacon. Stir constantly over direct heat or cook in double boiler until soup thickens slightly. Season with salt and pepper. Serve in soup plates with croutons made by toasting stale bread in oven. Sprinkle grated cheese over bread just before serving.

Flavor's the important thing in soup, and you'll know just to what extent when you try:

Split Pea Soup.

(Serves 6 to 8)
1 cup dried split peas
2 quarts cold water
Ham bone with a little meat on it
½ small onion
Salt and pepper
Soak peas overnight, drain and cover with the cold water. Heat to boiling point, add onion and ham bone. Simmer 2 to 3 hours or until tender. Remove ham bone and season. Serve with crisp toast.

If you're having a rather heavy meal and are considering omitting the soup, don't forego the pleasure of having a light, clear soup because it's just the thing for heartier meals. Here's a soup that can be made in advance and heated just before serving. Its excellent flavor is inspired by a careful combination of seasonings.

Clear Tomato Soup.

(Serves 6 to 8)
1 quart brown soup stock
1 can tomatoes
½ teaspoon peppercorns
1 small bayleaf
3 cloves
3 sprigs thyme
4 tablespoons butter
2 sprigs parsley
¼ cup each onion, carrot, celery
¼ cup raw ham, diced
Salt and pepper
Cook onion, carrot, celery and ham in butter 5 minutes. Add tomatoes, peppercorns, bayleaf, cloves, thyme and parsley. Cover and cook slowly 1 hour. Strain carefully, add hot stock and season with

Lynn Says:

Good soups deserve attractive accompaniments. Here are some popular ideas:

Thin slices of lemon, chopped parsley, thin slices of avocado, slightly salted whipped cream, toasted almonds.

In the bread line you can really do a lot of tricks, such as cutting the bread into fancy shapes with a cookie cutter, then toasting and sprinkling on soup before serving. Rings (made with doughnut cutter), animal shapes, hearts, stars and diamonds are popular. Cheese sticks are good too and are made by sprinkling grated cheese on bread strips, broiled and served hot.

Chopped chives or chopped parsley either by themselves or sprinkled over the salted whipped cream add color to soup platters.

salt and pepper.

Chicken Bouillon.

(Serves 8)
3 to 4 pound stewing chicken
2 chicken feet
3 to 4 quarts boiling water
3 stalks celery or ¼ cup diced celery root
1 onion, sliced
Salt and pepper
Nutmeg
Clean chicken and cut into small pieces. Scald chicken feet. Skin and remove nails. Pour boiling water over chicken, feet, celery and onion. Cover and simmer about 3½ hours. Remove chicken, strain stock and season. The chicken may be used creamed, in casseroles or wherever cut, cooked chicken is called for.

Lentil soup has long been among the high-ranking favorites. Because it has substance such as the lentils themselves, meat or even sausage, it's excellent served as a main dish, especially for Sunday night suppers:

Lentil Soup.

(Serves 6 to 8)
2 cups lentils
3 quarts cold water
2 pounds brisket of beef or ham bone
1 stalk celery, diced
2 onions, cubed
2 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons flour
Salt and pepper
Pick over lentils, wash, and soak overnight in cold water. Drain, cover with cold water, and cook with the meat for 1½ hours. Add celery and onion and cook for 2 hours. Blend melted fat and flour, season, then add ½ cups stock and cook until thick. Add rest of stock and serve with a slice of rye bread, sprinkled with cheese and toasted until the cheese is melted. Lentil soup is good also with smoked sausage or frankfurters in place of the meat listed above.

Another good soup that makes a meal in itself is this: Deep sea oysters are especially flavorful for this:

Oyster Bisque.

(Serves 6)
1 pint oysters
1½ cups water
Salt and pepper
2 cups milk
¾ cup dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 onion, chopped fine
1 stalk celery, chopped fine
1 sprig parsley, chopped fine
Cook oysters in their own water and liquor until they curl. Add onion, celery, parsley and simmer gently for 20 minutes. Scald milk, add bread crumbs and cook for 15 minutes in double boiler. Put mixture through a sieve. Melt butter, blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk and crumb mixture. Rub oysters through a sieve and add to milk mixture. Serve with soda crackers.

Quick soups may be concocted from cans. Here are some combinations guaranteed to please:

1 can tomato soup, 1 can pea soup
1 can tomato soup, 1 can chicken soup
1 can chicken soup, 1 can celery soup
1 can consomme, 1 can tomato juice
1 can chicken soup, 1 can mushroom soup
1 can tomato soup, 1 can asparagus soup
1 can mushroom soup, 1 can chicken broth
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

CREED FOR AN AMERICAN IN AN ALL-OUT WAR

I am through with compromise, halfway measures, crystal gazing and the idea that it's all done by mirrors.

I am finished with talk for talk's sake and the "that's under advisement" and "in due time the matter will be attended to" technic.

I have canceled my subscription to the theory that "it all comes out in the wash," even if you haven't thought to provide soap.

I believe in my country's capacity to triumph, despite its tendency to argue, muddle, procrastinate and compromise.

I believe the "Never say die" spirit of America will completely supersede the "What's in it for ME?" motif; and that it's about time.

I believe the Spirit of '76 will submerge the Spirit of Every Man for Himself, Every Politician for the Main Chance and Every American for Softer Upholstery.

I believe in the American Way and I now believe it is the way upward and forward and not just a circular path around the artificial rosebuds.

I believe the country is beginning to understand that sacrifice is not merely something done with a goat.

I believe that patriotism is something beginning to show in the deeds of Americans and no longer something that was the main concern of orators during a five-minute interval at national conventions.

I believe that "The Star-Spangled Banner" is now a song to stir every American to the depths, and no longer a number reserved in the main for special school exercises, army and navy activities and for musical comedy climaxes.

I believe that this is a war in which Americans see the issue more clearly than they have seen the issue in any war since 1776.

I believe that the hopes of Washington and Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln must triumph over the hopes of Hitler and Tojo and Mussolini.

I believe that the Bible must and shall triumph over Mein Kampf; and that the kindly figure of the Man of Galilee shall endure to guide the way of mankind long after the chest-thumping, plaza-strutting, dictatorial, microphone addicts and bullies have dwindled to the size of long-forgotten baccili.

I believe there is more in the Constitution of the United States, the Declaration of Independence and the American Bill of Rights worth fighting for than in any goal or set of goals ever proclaimed by all the war lords of history.

I believe Uncle Sam is all the more inspiring and all the more indestructible through his sudden awakening to the valor of the Chinese, the incredible toughness of the Russians, the fortitude of the British and the fine qualities of all those nations with which he is now linked in one crusade.

I believe Americans can "take it as well as dish it out."

I believe they are going to prove it in a way that will win a new respect all over the face of this earth.

I believe there are reversals, hard blows and great sufferings for Uncle Sam ahead.

I believe he will toughen up and show that he is the Uncle Sam of Breeds Hill, "the rude bridge that arched the flood," Valley Forge, Ticonderoga, Princeton, Gettysburg, San Juan Hill, Manila Bay, Belleau Wood and Soissons.

I believe in America!

JOE LOUIS AND THE ARMY EXAM

Q.—Have you done much fighting?
A.—No, but what I've done has been effective.

Q.—Have you done any flying?
A.—Not since the first Schmeling bout.

Q.—Any experience in tank work?
A.—No, that was two other champions.

There is a difference of opinion in the dress industry over the reported plan to shorten skirts by way of saving fabrics. Maurice Rentner of the Fashion Originators guild says they can't be made shorter without becoming police court matters. But we think he is wrong. Skirts got so short around the time of the last war now and then a husband got mixed up and put one on as a wristlet.

The splendid work of the Dutch in the war brings back to mind an old song Dr. Fred Beck used to sing at the Grays' outings back home: "Those Dutch, they say, they ain't got no style—They got style all the while, all the while!"

A robber entered an office at Broadway and Forty-second street at high noon the other day and stole $900. He was the only person in that area working at such an early hour.

Goodness Survives

It has become a settled principle that nothing which is good and true can be destroyed by persecution, but that the effect ultimately is to establish more firmly, and to spread more widely, that which it was designed to overthrow. It has long since passed into a proverb that "the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the Church."—Albert Barnes.

Alert for Opportunities

It is a dangerous thing to wait for opportunities until it becomes a habit. Energy and inclination for hard work ooze out in the waiting. Opportunity becomes invisible to those who are doing nothing, or looking somewhere else for it. It is the great worker, the man who is alert for chances, that sees them.—O. S. Marden.

It's simple. It's fun. Just think up a last line to this jingle. Make sure it rhymes with the word "now." Write your last line of the jingle on the reverse side of a Raleigh package wrapper (or a facsimile thereof), sign it with your full name and address, and mail it to Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., P. O. Box 1799, Louisville, Kentucky, postmarked not later than midnight, February 14, 1942.

You may enter as many last lines as you wish, if they are all written on separate Raleigh package wrappers (or facsimiles). Prizes will be awarded on the originality and aptness of the line you write. Judges' decisions must be accepted as final. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded. Winners will be notified by mail. Anyone may enter (except employees of Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., their advertising agents, or their families). All entries and ideas therein become the property of Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation.

"Raleighs are a milder blend, And they pay a dividend. Start to save the coupons now"

HERE'S WHAT YOU WIN

You have 133 chances to win. If you send in more than one entry, your chances of winning will be that much better. Don't delay. Start thinking right now.
